Application Services

Solution Architectures That Deliver Business Success

Milestone leverages its managed services experience in all its Application Services engagements to ensure your architecture always operates efficiently and deliver real business success.

Today's Application Landscape Provides Numerous Challenges for IT Leaders

IT leaders know the cloud provides compelling economic benefits, but only if they can incorporate cloud capabilities into their application architectures. Also, they must modernize their legacy applications to digitalize their businesses. With more applications comes more demand for process automation and user experiences that span multiple systems. Finally, they need to jump-start application development to support unique business capabilities when qualified developers are in short supply.

Case Study: Major Port Cuts Over On Time During COVID With Milestone

This global top 20, highly automated port faced a critical cutover date for outsourcing 24/7 IT support following a divestiture. Key mission-critical systems had to cut over before functionality provided by the divesting organization was turned off. The cutover date was fixed and could not change. Milestone delivered multiple Application Services, including Divestiture Transition, Enterprise Architecture, Custom Development, and Operational Support. Despite the COVID travel ban, the cutover took place on time thanks to Milestone's expertise, careful planning, and remote agile methodologies.

Why Choose Milestone for Application Services?

- Our Cloud Advisory service covers all aspects of your cloud strategy from planning through support.
- Milestone's Enterprise Architecture team will develop a desired future state solution architecture for you and build an implementation roadmap to get you there.
- Our Integration team leverages Mulesoft's application integration platform to accelerate delivery, automate security, reduce maintenance, and lay the groundwork for future enhancements.
- By mastering 'remote agile', Milestone's global Application Development group gets all the benefits of agile while leveraging our worldwide team's skills to deliver cost-effective custom applications.
